Band Change Violations (Multi-One or Multi-Two only) - These contacts violated the band change rules for the category. The QSO was removed without penalty.

Unique Calls Receiving Credit - These callsigns were not found in any other log. They have not been removed, but our experience indicates they are often the result of copying errors.

Lost Multipliers - This section lists the multipliers that were lost in your log due to callsign, exchange, or other copying errors.

Multipliers - This section lists the prefixes that were counted as multipliers in your log.

Stations Copying Your Exchange Incorrectly - This is a list of contacts where the station you worked copied your exchange incorrectly. You do not lose credit for these contacts. They are provided for your information.

Stations Copying Call Incorrectly - This is a list of all contacts we could identify where the station you worked copied your call incorrectly. You do not lose credit for these contacts. They are provided for your information.
If you have many similar errors, you should concentrate on ways to send your call differently that may be easier for others to correctly copy.

Stations Receiving Single Band NIL (Single-band entries only) - This shows a list of stations that received a not-in-log for QSOs that were not on your band of entry either due to copying errors or because you did not include these contacts in your log.

All logs are checked using custom software. Public logs are available at
